

Case competition direction: As a junior web developer for MISSO your job is to:

You will see some html that needs fixing. You can tell if they need fixing by some of the helpful blurbs.

For example, look a red square cell!

Shown above is a blue square cell, but the helpful blurb wants it to be red. You go into the code and change the html code to solve the problem. I would go into line 19, replace the blue in bgcolor = 'blue' and type in 'red'. Try it yourself, save the html file and open the file on a browser, you will now see a orange square cell like this:

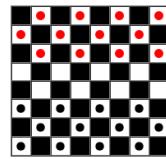

Think of this as an html escape room. A good resource to use is w3schools html. Good Luck!

From here on out Private.. There are mistakes abound.... Keep your eyes open, soldier.

Check out this list i came up with for an incoming grocery store run! Although I could have sworn I wrote something in that's not meant to be in this list, if only it could be bolded to my attention...

- Coffee
- Bananas
- Water
- Ferrari Portofino
- Jucie Box
- Grape Jucie

Although whenever i try to click on this link, it takes me straight to the page, I dont want that.. I want it to open in a new window because im still on this misso webpage... uh Junior you got this html code?

Junior, look at these pictures from top-down. They tell you a short story. Type a paragraph (in html code) about the meaning you got on the textarea below.

The Path

Winding roads, dirt path, smooth pavement. We all travel, to and from.

The weight on our shoulders that we hold. Eyes on us. Other's expectation spotlighting, criticizing every decision made.

Its difficult. Legs are getting weak. Tensions are growing; frustrations are showing.

Forget everyone. Close your eye. Feel the present; live in the moment. You can only affect today, now. You got this.

Rest. Rest for now.

Now is the time. Leave those anxiety and worry behind. Live fearlessly.

Create a version of, "Staples, that was easy" in html. The user clicks on a button, and a box appears that informs the user, "that was easy".

Click

I dont want to be left or right anymore. I want to be centered. Can you make that happen, Junior?

Create a table that shows this:

Modern Artist	Classic Artists
Kanye	Post Malone
Touch the Sky	Queen Fleetwood Mac

Mario Games
Mario Sunshine Mario Party Super Mario Bros

Movies
Inception Dark Knight Interstellar The Prestige

Why is there a cow standing on snow?!?! It should be standing on grass.

Junior, well done. Job is finished. Dinner is on me. I can only communicate through Images, however. So please show me an image below of your favorite drink and food. Width of 50 and Height of 45 please.
